Dewey on Job—"Vigorous investigation" of mysterious shooting of Jules Brulatour, husband of fragile Hope Hampton, was ordered by N. Y. Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey today. Brulatour, a $3000-a-day man, said he accidentally shot himself in his Park avenue apartment. The former screen star has been subpoenaed for questioning, as has Brulatour. STORY ON PAGE 3

Reardon Ousted, Downey Named To $9000 Post

Education Commissioner James G. Reardon was removed from office today by the executive council on recommendation of Governor Saltonstall.

The council voted eight to one for the ouster. Councilor Coakley was the lone Reardon supporter.

Immediately nominated by the governor as Commissioner Reardon's successor was Walter F. Downey, headmaster of English high school.

WALTER F. DOWNEY
Gets Reardon Post

JAMES G. REARDON
Purge Hits Him

The education post pays $9000 a year.

Reardon was characterized as "unfit and incompetent" in the removal charges, based on his alleged negligence in approving excessive expenditures for hurricane and flood damage repairs.

B. C. OFFICIALS WRITE

Just before the executive council took up the Reardon case, Governor Saltonstall's office made public communications from Very Rev. William J. McGarry, S. J., president of Boston College, and Rev. Louis J. Gallagher, S. J., former president of the same institution.

Both pleaded for "justice" for Commissioner Reardon, a Boston College alumnus.

Father McGarry's letter contained what appeared to be thinly veiled criticisms of former Governor Hurley and Attorney-General Dever.

DEFENDS REARDON

In a "subordinate office," Reardon was not allowed "free enough play" for his own methods of action, Father McGarry charged.

His letter characterized "official documents" laid before the governor in the Reardon case as lacking "that impartial tone which one looks for and demands in proper legal procedure."

Counsel for Commissioner Reardon announced legality of the council's ouster action would be questioned before the state supreme court.

Council confirmation of Downey as Reardon's successor was considered certain.

A prominent Catholic layman, active in affairs of Immaculate Conception Church, Downey won a reputation as a broad-minded and far-sighted educator long before he

'$30-Week' Bill Filed in Maine

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 25 (AP)—Representative Benjamin C. Bubar, Jr., of Weston, filed a $30 a week for life" pension bill with the Maine House of Representatives today.

The bill, similar to a measure proposed in California some months ago, would give 75,000 needy persons, 50 years or older, the $30 weekly.

It was designed, its sponsor asserted, to provide a revolving fund, placing $117,000,000 in circulation annually.

Stocks Sell Off, Then Rally a Bit

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Stock market forces became stalemated today when neither a decline nor a rally could get a decisive upperhand.

Around the final hour, losses running to $1 or so per share were most numerous, but late prices represented a partial recovery from an opening slide.

CITY OF 40,000 IN CHILE WIPED OUT BY QUAKE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 25 (AP)—An army plane surveying the scene of a disastrous Chilean earthquake today flew low over Chillan, 220 miles south of Santiago, and reported finding the city of 40,000 inhabitants "completely destroyed."

MRS. DAYRE RYLEE DUNN
Charges Male Untrue

The report of heavy damage to Chillan came as three army planes flew south to check reports 2000 persons had been killed in Concepcion, important coastal city of 77,000 inhabitants, 50 miles southwest of Chillan.

The mayor of Concepcion sent a terse message to the government saying:

"Situation most serious as a result of the earthquake. Unable to state number of casualties but many hundreds, probably thousands, require food, medical aid. Desperately urgent."

All available planes in Santiago were commandeered for relief and survey work as the government rushed medical and food supplies to the stricken area by train, plane and boat. Hundreds of doctors and nurses were mobilized for earthquake relief duty.

Conception and the nearby coastal city of Talcahuano were placed under a form of martial law. Three big fires were reported raging uncontrolled in Concepcion.

Official reports said that 100 dead had been counted thus far, exclusive of Chillan, and more than 500 injured.

Shattered communication lines hampered officials striving to obtain a clear picture of the extent of the disaster. Trains proceeded slowly, fearful of quake-weakened roadbeds and all passenger trains were held up near Talca, 90 miles north of Chillan.

President Pedro Aguirre Cerda and cabinet members departed for the quake area on a special train with 40 physicians, 70 nurses and medical supplies.

CENTER IN MOUNTAINS

Center of the quake was believed to be the mountainous regions along the border of Biobio and Malleco provinces south of Concepcion.

The government instructed carabineros, army, navy, state railways and state telegraph employes to obtain exact information concerning magnitude of the disaster and warned against exaggeration.

Reports from Talca, midway between Santiago and Concepcion, said eight persons were killed and 20 injured there, but little damage was caused by the quake.

From other cities of the region came these preliminary reports: Angol, 5 dead; Talcahuano, 7 killed, many injured; San Carlos, a small town near Chillan, widespread property damage; Parral, many victims and great damage; Cautin, many victims and serious damage.

'Rival' Divorce Verdict Waited

The plea of petite Mrs. Dayre Rylee Dunn, former dancer, for a divorce on grounds of cruelty and unfaithfulness from her theater-manager husand, Irving Dunn, of Lowell, today was under advisement in Middlesex Proate Court by Judge John C. Legatt.

The tiny dancer, who weighs but 93 pounds, named as "the other woman" Miss May Spillane, 23, Lowell WPA project worker, who she charged was entertained by her husband.

Miss Spillane, dark-eyed and buxom, waited two days in court for her chance to deny from the stand the contention of Mrs. Dunn that she had been unduly intimate with the Lowell theater manager.

Mother in Mystery Beating Recovers

Mrs. Letty McGowan, 38, of Alcott street, Brighton, who was badly beaten in the kitchen of her home yesterday, was reported improving in Boston City Hospital today. Police are still searching for the persons responsible for the attack.

Mother Guilty But Wins Mercy in Bad Check Case

FRAMINGHAM, Jan. 25—Her plea that she wrote and passed bad checks to buy food and clothing for her two small children won young Mrs. Gladys M. Breton a suspended sentence for larceny in district court here today.

At the same time, however, two new warrants were served on her, charging bad check larcenies in Walpole and Dedham.

She must appear in Franklin district court on the Walpole charge tomorrow and in Dedham district court on the Dedham charge Friday.

She also has a district court appointment in Westboro Saturday to face a bad check charge there.

When state police arrested Mrs. Breton a week ago, they estimated the total of her bad check larcenies at $100.

In court today she said she had receipts for all that money. It was spent, she said, to buy necessaries of life for her baby son and daughter.

"My husband earned so little," she sobbed. "I couldn't bear to see the children hungry and cold. What I did was wrong, but I did it for them."

Rev. Paul Jefferson, pastor of the Framingham Baptist Church, asked leniency for Mrs. Breton today.

MRS. GLADYS BRETON
Wins Clemency

Judge Edward W. Blodget sentenced her to a month in the House of Correction, but suspended it, putting her on probation until July 22.

Dewey Calls Hope In Shooting Probe

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—A subpoena has been issued for blonde Hope Hampton, actress-wife of Jules Brulatour who was wounded by a pistol bullet in their apartment Sunday night.

JULES BRULATOUR HOPE HAMPTON

Miss Hampton was expect- d to appear at Dewey's of- ice later in the day for ques- ioning.

A subpoena also was issued for David Fine, a clerk in a Park ave- u drug store who was reported have telephoned to Dr. Carl heobald to go to the Brulatour partment.

Brulatour, a 68-year-old million- aire, said he shot himself acciden- ally and that his wound was insig- dficant.

Police searched in vain for the un in Brulatour's Park avenue ome.

Propped up by two pillows in a ospital bed, Brulatour repeatedly old questioners the wound was in- ignificant.

"I was cleaning my gun and it went off accidentally," he said. "It grazed my ear, so I came down here to have X-rays taken."

Miss Hampton at one point told r husband—who was clad in old ue pajamas.

Big Ol' Lokie Warms Chill Tootsies

So it huffed, and it puffed, and it blew steam all day to heat the little tootsies of the cuties who work for the International Harvester Company offices in Brighton.

That's just what is happening, and it's a great, big, black locomotive, owned by the Boston & Albany Railroad, and it's hit d to the steam heating system of the International Harvester's building, 61 North Beacon street.

It's all because the building's boilers are cracked, and cold winds are coming.

It was all pretty blue around the plant this morning, what with no heat at all. And then the company's Thomas Edisons went into a huddle with its Sir Isaac Newtons, its Alexander Graham Bells and its Robert Fultons.

"I've got an idea," said one—they're all too modest to say which one—and they got busy on the telephone.

"We're pretty friendly with the railroad," said a spokesman later. "We told them what was what, and they said they thought it would work.

"So they backed up the engine, hooked up a pipe to a valve on top of its boiler, put in a reducing unit, so as not to blow us out of the window, and started pumping steam into our radiators.

"And, say, it works fine."

The engine will be on duty for at least a week, may e more, while the company's cracked boilers are being repaired. The cost is estimated at about $75 a day, and 75 people are kept warm and working.

It's a sales and service unit of the company, with T. E. Jenkins as branch manager.

Then, just as everybody was congratulating everybody else for the ingenuity involved, a story came from Lynn about Joseph Shmisskiss and his four-story apartment building at 15 W. Baltimore street, without heat.

Street Superintendent Thomas Smith of Lynn solved his problem in exactly the same way, but with a steam roller supplying the necessary heat.

And so it goes . . .

Brave

MRS. OLIVIA STONE HOLMES

Milkman Pleads Guilty to Holdup

He needed money to pay an employment agency fee, and so he invaded the home of an ex-customer of his milk route, threatened her and her visitor with a toy pistol and was given $2.85, it was testified today at the arraignment of Walter Neal, 25, of Brown street, Waltham.

He pleaded guilty to having robbed Mrs. Olivia Stone Holmes, amateur skating star and Vincent club member, in her Wayland home.

He was arrested shortly after the alleged robbery.

Judge Edwin Blodgett ordered him held in bonds of $1000 on the robbery charge, and he was lodged in the East Cambridge jail.

In the house with young, pretty and athletic Mrs. Holmes at the time was C. Mifflin Frothingham, a cousin of Governor Saltonstall.

Although he's one of the volunteer collectors for the Community Fund, and had a considerable sum of Fund money on his person, he succeeded in talking the bandit into the belief he had no money at all.

State police say Mrs. Holmes was walking with her dogs when she met Mr. Frothingham, and invited him to the house to look at some changes she had made.

They were in the house only a minute when a car drew up and the doorbell rang.

As the skating star opened the door, a brawny young man wearing red goggles and a handkerchief across his face burst in, produced what look like a pistol, and stated it was a holdup.

When she protested she had no money on her, he insisted, and she went into another room and obtained the purse containing the $2.85.

"You, too," he said to Frothingham, and the governor's cousin proceeded to give the convincing poverty talk that led the bandit to leave without searching him.

According to the authorities, Neal was employed by a Weston milk company until a week ago, and delivered at the Holmes house.

MILLION FOR SOCIALITE

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (INS)—Jason Paige, Jr., 28-year-old socialite, today had more than $1,000,000 dumped into his lap through a will drawn in 1904 before his birth.

MARITAL MIXUP ENDS, PATROLMAN DIVORCED

Henry C. Elliott, Boston police officer, whose divorce petition against his wife was held up by the revelation that her first husband was alive when she married him, won his decree in Suffolk Probate Court today.

Judge William M. Prest dismissed the annulment proceedings he had suggested that Elliott bring against his wife and granted a divorce on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment. He ordered Elliott to pay his wife $7 a week.

The patrolman opened suit against his wife last year, charging she had kept four dogs and four canaries in their bedroom, tied a police dog to his bed post, beat him and threatend him with a pistol.

The statuesque blonde, who was born in Somerville, gave Spain as her birthplace on her marriage license, Elliott said, and several times referred to her Spanish blood to explain any flights of temper she might have.

When it was revealed that her first husband, Charles J. Gilmore, was alive when she wedded Elliott, Judge Prest suggested he bring annulment proceedings. Later, Mrs. Elliott's counsel argued that the death of Gilmore after the marriage removed all liability.

Bombs Peril Americans Fleeing Barcelona

Aboard U. S. Cruiser Omaha, near Barcelona, Jan. 25 (AP)—Fifteen Americans, fleeing the beleaguered Barcelona area, had to run a gantlet of bombs today before they reached safety aboard the Omaha and the United States destroyer Badger.

One bomb fell 100 feet from the refugees as they stood on a breakwater waiting for a small boat to take them out to the warships, anchored about two miles off Caldetas, approximately 20 miles north of Barcelona.

More bombs were dropped by Insurgent planes while the small boat was en route to the United States vessels, but none fell near the refugee-laden craft.

Seven Insurgent planes started bombing Caldetas at 8:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m. Boston time) after the Omaha had sent out a tender to take off the 30 waiting refugees.

CRUISER'S GUNS READY

The cruiser unlimbered her anti-aircraft guns for action if necessary. The Americans had gone to Caldetas yesterday and last night to await the Omaha, which was sent from Villefranche, France.

Captain Francis G. Cogswell, United States naval attache of the Paris embassy, came to Spain a few days ago to help the rescue of the Americans. He boarded the Omaha in the first tender to complete arrangements for the evacuation.

With him was Colonel Henry B Cheadle, United States military attache in Spain.

Fifteen refugees were put aboard the Badger. More were expected to board the two warships from later boats.

TELLS OF BOMBING

"We were standing on the breakwater when the first bombs fell, Colonel Cheadle said.

"One burst 100 feet away, but none of us was hit. We were on the water going to the warships when the second lot of bombs was loosed, but none fell near us."

The bombs started a fire in Caldetas.

Several bombs dropped near a French destroyer, which immediately started preparing to move farther from shore.

The bombers did not appear to be trying deliberately to hit the warships, although they flew over American, British and French battlecraft anchored off Caldetas.

FRANCO MEN ENTER GATES OF BARCELONA

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier) (AP)—The Insurgent command reported today that its troops had penetrated the southern section of Barcelona and by noon had extended a ring of steel around all the city except the northern coastal portion.

From emplacements along a huge arc nearly enclosing the third capital of the Spanish republic Insurgent artillery was reported shelling the city, while a steady stream of refugees poured out northward along the coastal road.

Insurgent dispatches said an advance guard of one column entered Barcelona from the south but was waiting in the outskirts rather than risk further penetration until stronger forces had been brought up.

SURRENDER ASKED

The main body of troops was following by forced marches, said the Insurgent command, and was expected to begin arriving in Barcelona by nightfall.

One Burgos dispatch said bitter

BULLETINS

LONDON, Jan. 25 (INS)—A Reuter dispatch from Perpignan, France, said today that the Barcelona government left that city for Gerona last night. The report said the government left Barcelona one representative of each ministry.

CHERBERE, France, Jan. 25 (AP)—French anti-aircraft batteries today fired warning rounds at insurgent planes which circled over French territory near here. The appearance of the planes delayed passage of about 400 non-Spanish combatants, including 94 Americans, through the international tunnel from Spain to France.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (INS)—The London Evening News reported today that communications between Barcelona and the outside world have been cut off. Heavy delay was experienced in communicating with Barcelona by means of the sole telephone connection with France.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (INS)—The U. S. destroyer Badger has left the port of Caldetas for Marseille with 20 American refugees aboard, the Navy was advised today. They included ten women and three children, but no names were given.

Rublee, Nazis Talk On Jewish Emigration

Cold, Gale Due; Ice Causes Death

With ice films already covering streets and highways throughout New England, storm warnings of winds of "gale intensity" were ordered along the coast as far north as Eastport, Me., by the government weather bureau at Washington today.

Marked disturbances were reported centering over this area and moving eastward rapidly, scheduled to result in bitter blasts from the northwest as the day wore on.

Temperatures as low as 10 above were predicted for Boston, with sub-zero readings due in other parts of New England.

One death was credited to the ice film early today. Michael Bowler, 33, of Bondsville, was crushed to death when his car skidded and hurtled off of the road on the Bondsville-Palmer road near Springfield.

He was buried in the wreckage and was not found for nearly an hour after the accident.

Stuart N. Carlson, 33, of Manchester, Ct., was held by Cambridge police after his car skidded into a safety island and turned over in Central square.

Carlson and Miss Elizabeth Shine, 24, of Hudson street, Cambridge, were treated for cuts. Other like accidents were reported from all over New England as a fault of the light, wet snowfall, while 40 persons were injured by falls on slippery sidewalks.

The patrol boat Argo sailed through rough seas to reach the disabled Gloucester fishing dragger Alice and Mildred, which radioed for assistance from a point 75 miles east of Provincetown. The captain stated the vessel was not in immediate danger.

From Cape Cod to the Berkshires, public works department trucks went into action early in the day to sand the snow-glazed highways. Several traffic tie-ups were reported on the Newburyport and Providence highways.

2 Hurt as Bus, Auto Collide

Two men were injured and a woman passenger in a Boston Elevated bus fainted when the bus and an automobile crashed at Walnut and Pearl streets, Somerville, today.

Arthur F. Sanford, 42, of Walnut street, who police said was driver of the automobile, received injuries to his knees and legs.

Edward A. Morlian, 45, also of Walnut street, a passenger in Sanford's car, suffered lacerations.

Catherine Vigneau, Rhode Island avenue, Somerville, was the bus passenger who fainted.

Timilty Orders Beano Checkup

Strict police supervision of beano games throughout the city was directed by Superintendent of Police Edward W. Fallon in a letter today to all commanding officers in the department.

Stating that the letter was written at the direction of Police Commissioner Timilty, it ordered weekly inspections of the games, with reports in writing from commanding officers regarding games which are not being conducted in accordance with regulations prescribed by the mayor's office.

Sen. Walsh Asks NLRB Reforms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (INS)—Drastic changes in the Wagner labor act to curtail power of the National Labor Relations Board and to give employers rights now denied by the board, were proposed today in legislation introduced in the Senate by Senator Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts.

The legislation was drafted by experts of the American Federation of Labor, and its submission to Congress through Walsh carried out a mandate of the A. F. of L. annual convention in Houston last fall.

The entire membership of the federation is pledged to a vigorous campaign of support for the measures, embodied in an omnibus bill carrying Walsh's sponsorship.

CRAFT SETUP ACKED

The CIO is violently opposed to any change in the Wagner Act.

Basic provisions would:

1—Compel the NLRB to consider craft as well as plant or other groups in determining by vote who shall be their bargaining representative.

Inasmuch as the A. F. of L. is organized by crafts, and its rival, the CIO, is vertically or industrially organized on the theory of one union for each industry, this would give the Federation a better chance to win collective bargaining powers.

2—Curtail powers of the board to invalidate existing legal labor contracts.

3—Permit employers to seek employe elections in their plants for determination of the collective bargaining agency of employes. Under present policy the board refuses to permit petitions for elections from employers, limiting such efforts to labor alone.

LONG-SOUGHT PROVISION

4—Permit the filing of affidavit's of prejudice against trial examiners any interested party considers unfair in his recommendations. This privilege would extend to employers under the amendments proposed, and is one which business and industry have long demanded.

5—Permit employers to "express opinions on matters of interest to their employes or the public," provided such expressions are not accompanied by "acts" of discrimination. Frequently in the past the labor board has held such "expression" unfair labor practices.

Save Navy Flier As Plane Falls Off Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 25—Commander Francis Martin Maile, Jr., U. S. N., was trapped and almost drowned in the cockpit of a navy seaplane here today as he was taxiing to a landing ramp.

According to witnesses, Commander Maile had landed the ship on the choppy water and had almost reached the platform at Gould Island when a gust of wind caught the ship and tipped it over, forcing the flier under the water.

A Gould Island landing crew freed the officer, and a navy physician and a hospital crew, equipped with an inhalator, made a quick three-mile trip from Newport to the island.

Whether Maile would live, the doctor would not say.

Before coming to Newport Commander Maile was a naval attache at the U. S. embassy in Berlin, and he took the ship up today to "get some flying time." His home is in Indiana. He is 47 years old and unmarried.

Perkins Probe Put Off a Day

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—The House judiciary committee deferred action today, at least until tomorrow, on a resolution by Representative Thomas (R.) of New Jersey calling for impeachment of Secretary Perkins.

The committeemen started reading Thomas' 45-page document, but when about halfway through recessed for the day and headed for the floor of the House.

They will not decide what course to pursue, a member said, until reading of the impeachment resolution had been concluded, probably tomorrow.

Senate G. O. P. Bloc to Back WPA Slash

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — Senate Republicans united today in an effort to hold the relief appropriation to $725,000,000.

That sum, voted by the House and approved by the Senate appropriations committee, is $150,000,000 less than the amount asked by President Roosevelt to continue WPA operations until June 30.

At a conference today, Republican senators generally agreed to support the $725,000,000 figure. Some in the group said that not more than three of the 23 senators-members of their party would vote for an increase.

Those expected to favor $875,-000,000 were Borah of Idaho, Frazier of North Dakota and Davis of Pennsylvania.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, said his party's senators would be willing to vote for additional relief funds to meet any emergency later if the $725,-000,000 is appropriated and exhausted before June 30.

Meantime, he said, Republicans were seeking to make at least a start toward reducing government expenditures.

Many conservative Democrats are expected to join the Republicans in supporting the $725,000,000 appropriation, and there were general predictions that the final vote would be extremely close.

Democratic conservatives were in frequent conference with Vice President Garner, who long has advocated government economy and who was said reliably to be supporting proponents of the $725,000,-000 appropriation.

Uses Match in Gas Leak Hunt; Blast Saves 9 Lives

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 25—Looking for a gas leak with a lighted match today, a Vinton street man caused an explosion which injured him—but probably saved the lives of nine other tenants of the building.

Police found them unconscious from gas fumes. Firemen revived them all with inhalators and prone pressure resuscitation.

The explosion victim, Joseph Castelloni, 24, was hurled across the cellar by the blast, but escaped with a lacerated scalp.

The house was shaken to its foundations and a hole blown in the sidewalk.

Of the nine persons overcome, those most seriously affected were Mrs. Angelina Castelloni, Frank Castelloni, Edward Castelloni, Angelo Cicone, Antonio Cerise and Armando Ianacci.

Police said the gas fumes came from a leaking main.

GRIEF—Bowed down by the heavy hand of tragedy, Refugee Abe Linzen sorrows in his Webster home . . . His baby dead from gas, his wife still critically ill . . . Two more blows from the evil fate he thought he had escaped by his flight from Germany.

REFUGEE PAIR BOWED BY DEATH OF INFANT

WEBSTER, Jan. 25—After a 3000-mile flight from the persecution of Nazi tyrants, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Linzen were met on the threshold of their new life by tragedy today, as their infant son Peter lay dead.

The 21-months-old baby's life was snuffed out by fumes and Mrs. Linzen, an attractive German girl of 28, was overcome in a bedroom adjoining the kitchen of their home.

Neighbors in the three-floor apartment house on Pearl street smelled the fumes and broke into the Linzen home.

Mother and child were rushed to the hospital but doctors stated the baby had been dead three hours.

Pulmotors were used for Mrs. Linzen, whose almost imperceptible heart flutterings showed she clung to a thread of life. Today the battle appeared to be won, the hospital reported, but her condition was reported critical.

The accident occurred while Linzen was at work in a local shoe shop. The young husband and father was prostrated by grief.

For more than a year the couple had planned their escape from Germany.

Last July the opportunity arrived. Hopefully they took their son and their few belongings to France, then to America. They were aided by friends in New Bedford before Linzen found steady work in Webster seven weeks ago.

$150,000 DONATED IN BIG FUND DRIVE

Anonymous contributions totaling nearly $40,000 and other donations that brought the first day's collections to approximately $150,000 spurred 15,000 volunteers working on 1939 Greater Boston Community Fund Drive to new enthusiasm today.

Among the contributions were $5000 by Cardinal O'Connell, $4000 by Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Rosenberg, $1000 by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bulfinch Adams.

Drive authorities reported that 19 teams and committees headed by lead-pacified Jan. 10 per cent of quotas with six captains and committees turned up.

The quota this year is for $1,647,000 and the committee gives the agencies two months in which to raise the money.

Mayor Tobin, an enthusiastic backer of the Community Fund for eight years, gave the kick-off speech at a meeting of the organization's workers at noon today.

He asked that the agencies with ready jobs show their sympathy for those who are trying to support the drive.

George A. Hamell, vice-chairman of the drive, said the plan was to have the drive completed by Feb. 10. Hamell said that a campaign would be opposed.

Dana Hon. Raymond P. Berry, director of the Community Fund Bureau, made two principal points.

BOMB RAKES 4 STORES IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 25. A sleeping man was hurled from his bed and four store fronts were blown out in a mysterious bomb blast which shook the business section of North Providence early today, what police said was an attack upon a restaurant owned by Charles Tzaras, known as Charley's Lunch.

The bomb made of black powder, was apparently thrown into the doorway of the restaurant from a passing automobile. Tzaras was unhurt, although both he and his wife were in bed at the time. The explosion took place at 3 o'clock, only 20 minutes after he had closed up and gone home.

No reason for the outrage has been advanced, and police and state fire Marshal Frank Chetwynd have begun a double-barreled investigation.

Henry De Jarlis sleeping in a rooming house on the street from the restaurant, was cut on the face by flying glass. He was treated at the City Hospital and then released.

The front of the restaurant was destroyed and windows were smashed in houses and many stores occupied by the city. Police are looking for Harry Arey, 40, owner of the restaurant, and Frank Tzaras, 30, brother of the owner.

Alexander Kipnis Performance Here Superb

By RUTH MARSTERS
Music Editor

Jordan Hall has been the home by scene of many memorable happenings — artistically speaking, scarcely ever that of a "furore of enthusiasm."

But while Boston audiences gradually prefer to take things in their stride, those fortunate enough to be present last evening for the recital appearance of Alexander Kipnis found themselves of a different temper.

If enthusiasm became rampant and could not be contained it was due to the supreme artistry of the Russian basso, notably in the singing of the German lieder to which the major portion of the program was devoted.

If during his long association with the Chicago Opera Company here and abroad with the Vienna State Opera, more recently under Toscanini in festivals of Salzburg and Bayreuth, and last year at the International Festival of Lucerne, Kipnis has become known as one of the leading basses of his time. His reputation as a lieder singer is steadily growing.

That he is one of the truly great exponents of the latter art was most obviously apparent during the evening's performance of Schubert, Schumann and Brahms.

Kipnis' voice itself is of course extraordinary both in range and quality, and not less so is its flexibility. The tech'cal handling of it is expert and approaches at times whether it be in the most subtle pianissimo nuance, or a fortissimo climax.

The program was exceptionally well designed.

Following the preliminaries Handel, the Schubert group opened with the eerie halflights of "Nacht und Traume" and "Der Leiden Gemeinde" contrasting with such perverse poetry as that of "Ich Hab Im Traum Geweinet" and "Meeresstille."

The Brahms group was not without its humorous episodes as "Sapphic" proved so delightful it had to be repeated.

The piano was brought to a close with Tschaikowsky Moods, Songs, and Tears Poems by Tschaikowsky.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25.—Norma Shearer as Greta Garbo calls Lee Tracy "Robert Taylor." Leopold Stokowski has put his baton down to become an actor. Wayne Morris has changed his name to Wayne Bryan because Bryan has an "r" in it. Mr. Sorcerer Apprentice, Paul Dukas, and Mickey Mouse will appear together in a short subject. Ray Bolger and Jack Haley will play the Tin Woodman and the Scarecrow in "The Wizard of Oz." Ann Sothern will be Glinda, the Good Witch. Judy Garland will be Dorothy. Frank Morgan will be the Wizard. Billie Burke will be Glinda, the Good Witch. Margaret Hamilton will be the Wicked Witch of the West. Clark Gable will be the Cowardly Lion. Victor Fleming will direct. Mervyn LeRoy will produce.

Louella O. Parsons says:

Stokowski, who is the first man to "conduct" a picture for the screen, is working with Deems Taylor on the Disney picture.

That answers the question of what happened to "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," never before released. Stokowski completed it for Walt Disney. It takes the new feature idea so seriously that he will remain at the conductor's desk while "Fantasia" is shown.

All your old favorites, Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Pluto and Donald Duck will be conspicuous by their absence. But you will see new characters as you do in the Three Little Pigs and Snow White.

Wayne Morris and the bright boys who put on a big benefit for the Red Cross when the flood was at its height, will stage a repeat performance on the steps of the Capitol when the "Cavalcade of Sports" broadcast comes to Washington. The White Sox Baseball Team, called the Chicago Cubs when they were in Los Angeles, will be on hand for the event.

Ann Sothern may not be Eleanor Whitney's sister-in-law, but she was one of the Sisters of Mary for a spell. Mrs. George Corbett was Mary Lansing, with Ann playing the part of the sister who was the favorite of both the Bishop and Father Dolan.

Ann Sothern, Mary Boland, Frank Craven, Lionel Atwill, Ralph Morgan, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold, Jean Hersholt, Fay Bainter, Jean Parker, Lee Bowman and Virginia Weidler were among those present when Mayor La Guardia welcomed Mickey Rooney back to New York.

Ben Lyon, who has been working in "The Lady Vanishes," whose chief is Hitchcock, the man who made "The Man Who Knew Too Much," is now working on "Hotel for Women," which Gregory Ratoff directs. Lyon starts the Irving Berlin picture, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," Tuesday.

Irving Thalberg, Hunt Stromberg, Bernard Hyman and Lawrence Weingarten, M-G-M chief executives, have been working with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy on the latter's radio broadcasts. Thalberg has been in the habit of dropping in on the broadcasts to see that everything is all right. Now he has decided that Eddy is capable of handling the broadcasts himself.

'Brother Rat' Film Feature at Globe

The Globe's new bill, starting today, features "Brother Rat," prep military school comedy in which Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane are featured, and "Three Musketeers," which has Ann Sothern and Margaret Lindsay as the two charmers.

'Macbeth' Here Tuesday

The Federal Theater presentation of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," to be offered at the Copley Theater, starting a three-weeks' engagement next Tuesday evening, is promised by State Director Joe Mack as "the crowning achievement of the Massachusetts project of the Works Progress Administration."

It is promised that while keeping to the classic text and a massive revelation of the nine scenes of the first part of the tragedy and the five in the second part, the scenic and lighting treatment will be entirely modern including [illegible] Welles of the Theater of the People, [illegible] cast as Macbeth, [illegible] will be portrayed by Rose Hobart.

What INDUSTRY Means to New England!

¶ Industry in New England is the Horn of Plenty from which flows products, prosperity and employment for varied workers. Its benefits encompass not only the boundaries of the six states, but spread to every corner of the land.

¶ Industry in America was pioneered in New England, and though today there may be sections of larger expanse, it is still one of the country's most intensively developed manufacturing areas, with an unequalled industrial diversification.

¶ New England has more than 14,000 manufacturing establishments. Of the 350 classifications into which America's products are divided, nearly two-thirds are to be found "Made in New England."

¶ The value of these products was approximately $4,000,000,000, and their manufacture gave employment to 911,022 people, according to the U. S. 1935 Census of Business.

¶ Nearly a million workers earn an annual aggregate payroll of approximately a billion dollars. Truly, industry in New England is an important source of life blood contributing to the economic health and growth of the six states.

Boston American Is Nearing Its 35th Milestone

...ecember the Annual Financial and Industrial Review carries a fitting time to call attention to the fact that the Boston Evening American will soon observe the thirty-fifth anniversary of publication, having first taken its place among representative Boston newspapers in 1904.

From the very first issue up to the present day one of the cardinal principles of the Boston American has been to be of the greatest possible service to the greatest number of people. In other words it has striven to be a newspaper of the people by the people for the people.

During the seventy-odd years of publishing, the paper established by the late William Randolph Hearst has been identified with a series of fearless crusades. Looking forward always to the interests of the people and the Commonwealth it served has made the Boston American an outstanding newspaper from the very first issue on. Probably no other metropolitan daily newspaper in the East has had a more colorful career.

BUSINESS SERVICE

A list of the achievements accomplished over the span of years by this newspaper would require an issue many time the size of today's. But remembrance of the part the Boston American has played in the development of the city, will always be vivid in the minds of those who have seen it march onward each year to greater success and greater service.

Due to the universal appeal of editorial content, the Boston American attracted a large number of readers from the start. Down through the years an increasing numbers of readers have been added. Years ago the American attained the prestige of having the largest circulation of any evening newspaper in New England and this leadership has since been consistently maintained.

As a result business concerns quickly recognized its value as an advertising medium as the key spot where merchandise of all kinds could be sold to the minds of buyers. Many stores have increased from modest beginnings to enviable volumes of patronage through the columns of the Boston American.

Advertisers have found that response has come especially from people in the "buying-age" groups. The alert, employed, spendable folks who expressed, by their patronage, the same confidence in information found in advertising as others that they found in the editorial columns.

LARGE PAYROLL

Because Mr. Hearst has always had a keen interest in Boston he has been unstinted in his investments to improve the facilities for producing the Boston American. When the original quarters at 80 Summer street became too small, the present property at 5 Winthrop sq. was taken over.

Here year in and year out the thousand and one items of equipment necessary to keep a newspaper plant modern, to insure the most complete news and picture coverage, and to facilitate rapid and efficient mechanical and delivery service have been added.

The payroll of Hearst publications in Boston amounts to approximately $[illegible] a week, a sum equal to that of many sizable industrial concerns. And of this money finds its way into various commercial channels in and around Boston.

In keeping pace with the modern trend in comfortable conveniences and attractiveness the Boston Evening Post completed its [illegible] last [illegible] October and the Boston Sunday Advertiser in April, 1938. At that time the Boston American also [illegible] with the opening Daily Record [illegible] for advertising a complete circulation of [illegible] homes.

Through wars and peace, through depressions and prosperous times, the Boston Evening American has gone forward consistently, progressing in power and purpose, serving Boston and New England as a great, modern metropolitan newspaper.

AMERICAN BUSINESS COINS A NEW LANGUAGE

Streamlining of Reports Useful

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Economic Commentator for the Hearst Newspapers

A new language has been developing in the United States in the last year. It is intended to interpret to the man on the street the anatomy and physiology of business enterprise. As the new method of communication by chief executives of business enterprises with workers, voters, stockholders and governmental officials develops, scores of outstanding American corporations have begun to employ the new social tool.

It consists of streamlined and modernized financial statements, which simplify and reclassify accounts in order more truthfully and more dramatically to reveal the "take" out of corporate receipts of government in taxes, of workers in wages and salaries, as well as that of thrifty persons who provide savings out of which the tools are acquired. The fashion is spreading with rapidity, and when the 1938 corporate statements are released in 1939 they will to an increasing extent use new symbols of simplicity and candor. On account of my advocacy of this new technique of expression, I have received hundreds of letters from corporate executives, and many of them have confided that they will make increasing use of this new device for promoting inter-group harmony and understanding.

lectual method of synthesis and summarization. The basic concept of the new language of corporate finance is that business realities can all be reduced to the practical terms of the cost sheet. All the infinite and complicated details relating to cost can be summarized under five major headings. The gross receipts of a company, flowing from the sale of merchandise and service, are used to defray five principal elements of cost.

FIVE ELEMENTS OF COST

These include

1—The Tax Cost. This is the levy made on private enterprise to pay for the overhead of governmental services. With government extending operations into new fields, public spending is taking an increasing portion of the total income produced by the people of the nation. In the petroleum industry, for example, companies paid in 1937 taxes equivalent to 1.2 cents per barrel of oil produced by the people in 1890. The difference is the cost made by the person in the street in his role of consumer. In 1937 one major oil company in the Middle West for example collected from its customers and redistributed in taxes $1.67 for every dollar collected from its customers and redistributed in wages to the employees. In 1937 government in the United States, local, state and federal, took more than the entire national income produced by the people in 1890. 2. The cost of goods and services purchased by the corporation from others.

3. Wages and salaries paid to employes.

4. The cost of wearing out and becoming out of date of tools.

5. The profit, which might more accurately be described as a wage payment to the thrifty for the privilege of using the tools which they have provided out of their savings.

Prompt action [illegible] such rate during the first half of the year. Most of the money will go into construction. Approximately 45 per cent of the construction dollar is spent for products made by the manufacturing industries. This will be reflected in increased production and employment.

While there will almost certainly be an increase in [illegible] business improve the fundamental relationship between employer and employee is on a much more stable basis than a year ago, and the number and severity of strikes will in no way approach 1937 records. # Good Prospects For Industries 1939 Indication

By WILLIAM RAND

"While the indices for industrial employment, earnings and orders are at the moment about 10 per cent under the corresponding period two years ago there are reasons to believe that these indices in Massachusetts will approximate corresponding levels of 1935 and 1936 within the next few months.

"The factory earnings index is showing an upturn and in view of the absence of many unfavorable factors there is apparently no reason why continuance of this trend might not be expected for several months in 1939 with increased employment and expenditures and expansion of purchasing.

GOOD LABOR RELATIONS

"Industry in Massachusetts is still feeling some apprehension because of taxation and inflationary tendencies in the monetary system. This is unfortunate in long term planning. A most hopeful sign, however is the better understanding that exists between labor and management to avoid the labor difficulties that occurred in previous years. There is now a hopeful feeling that the better economic balance of the two major political parties in Congress indicates a swing away from radical legislation and experiment in governmental affairs. When these factors and trends are assessed and weighed the outlook for the immediate future for Massachusetts industry seems bright."

The year just completed was previously the most productive in planning new products, new developments and new processes that Massachusetts has ever had, and there are many indications that the results from experimental work in the past year or two will be reflected in the business of 1939, according to Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and chairman of the executive committee of the State Department of Commerce.

Dr. Compton, who is also chairman of the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and president of Arthur D. Little, Inc., Stevens & Sherman, Gustavus J. Esselen, Inc. and other nationally known concerns in the chemistry and engineering fields.

Every major field of industry in Massachusetts has new developments ready to market or approaching completion in the laboratories or shops. Plastics is one field of new development that is announcing new products with great rapidity. Textiles, metallurgy, rubber, chemicals, electrical equipment all show great progress in new products.

PROGRESS IN TEXTILES

"The new duPont development, Nylon, from which a perfect substitute for silk in women's hosiery has been produced, is the same material as Eaton, from which toothbrushes in the future will probably be made. The only plant making these new toothbrushes is located in Leominster, Mass.

Three Million Depositors in Mutual Banks

By A. GEORGE GILMAN

Executive Secretary, Massachusetts Co-operative Savings Banks Association

The mutual savings banks of Massachusetts have grown to gigantic proportions in their 119 years of existence. Starting in the humble way with small deposits, they have grown to the point where they now have more than three million depositors and deposits of more than two billion dollars.

Although most of the [illegible] Massachusetts Co-operative Savings Banks Association, of Massachusetts are co-operative in [illegible] being conducted through the mutual plan of co-operation rather than [illegible] principle, they do not [illegible] the virtues of [illegible]

Savings Banks Advancements Are Noteworthy

By DANA S. SYLVESTER

President, Mutual Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts

Mutual savings banks deposits as of December 31, 1938 amounted to $2,123,308,935. These deposits belong to 2,811,808 depositors, an average of $755.14 per account. These facts show that despite the adverse employment and economic conditions prevailing in the first half of 1938 there are thousands of people who continued their thrift habits for which Massachusetts citizens are famous.

Savings banks regard the present day of thrift as one of most important in its history. Today, the Massachusetts savings banks are making substantial use of advertising, publicity and educational methods to acquaint the people with what they have to offer. They are especially trying to enlighten the young people of the state as to the value of a savings account.

The problem of investment for savings banks is also a live one today. The rate of interest on the bonds which are legal investments for savings banks has declined to a point where it is difficult to obtain a return sufficient to meet the demand for interest on deposits. Many savings banks have found it necessary to invest a portion of their funds in other than bonds. Some have invested in preferred stocks, others in mortgages, while a few have made loans on collateral. Each bank has its own problem and must solve it in the way best suited to its own particular circumstances.

DANA S. SYLVESTER

Polaroid Glass Proves Success

During the past year many new developments affecting the principles of the polaroid of light have been brought out by the Polaroid Corporation of Boston. A new machine for examining glass ware to determine internal strains has been developed.

The process of manufacturing polaroid glass for instrument uses has been developed with the new machine. It is brought out by the Polaroid Corporation. It prevents glare from the snow and desert sands. Many tints are used. By turning a knob the passenger can regulate the amount of light entering the window all the way from complete darkness to normal daylight.

SAND FOR GLASS MAKING

A recent bulletin of the U. S. Bureau of Mines says the sands of Ipswich and Berlin probably will be used for the manufacture of glass on a large scale. By reducing the iron content to a minimum, glass of high quality can be made. Low grade sands are now used for commercial glass.

Savings Banks Confident Of Gains During 1939

By HENRY R. KINSEY

President, National Association of Mutual Savings Banks

The American people enter the year 1939 with encouraging prospects of continued improvement in their economic status. It is my opinion that the volume of business conducted during the year 1939 will be at a new high level and that the number of persons employed will be greater than ever before in our history.

Mutual savings banks during the year 1938 experienced an increase in deposits of $90,000,000 and added 100,000 depositors to their rolls. Figures for 124 banks for the month of January 1939 indicate that the increase in deposits for the month will be greater than for any January in the history of the banks.

Despite the operations of the Social Security Act, which has placed a heavy burden of taxation on the savings banks and has made it necessary for them to adopt new methods of operation in all phases of their business, the savings banks have not been deterred from carrying out their primary purpose of encouraging thrift and providing a safe depository for the savings of the people.

With renewed confidence in the ultimate success of private enterprise, the savings banks are looking forward to a year of progress and prosperity. The savings banks have not been deterred from carrying out their primary purpose of encouraging thrift and providing a safe depository for the savings of the people.

Life Insurance Owes a Debt to Massachusetts

By WILLIS H. HAZARD, Ph.D.

The history of life insurance in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is long and extremely good. In fact it is so good that the [illegible] statement is true. No [illegible] ever failed after [illegible] incorporated by Massachusetts and operated under its supervision has ever failed. It is Massachusetts's proud boast that the fact is [illegible] of any other state in the Union.

[illegible] of life insurance however was established [illegible] ago today. Probably the very earliest step in that direction was taken by the [illegible] of Massachusetts in 1760. The legislature then required that the charter of an insurance company should contain the provision that policies to [illegible] insurance [illegible] facts and [illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] which remained in force [illegible] years without [illegible] different, extended [illegible] Legislature of the United States.

[illegible]

"Insurance owes a large debt to Massachusetts. Its companies are goodly and strong. Its law is clear and comprehensive. Its Insurance Department organized in 1855 has long been a model to those of other states. The quality of insurance supervision in Massachusetts has always been the same."

[illegible]

1939 Trends in Life Insurance

By GUY W. COX

"The life insurance business is more closely related to general business conditions than ever before, and the volume of new business that will be written in 1939 will depend upon that relationship. The life insurance business is essentially the application of thrift, and thrift implies a saving, and the amount that can be accumulated for one's benefit and the amount of enjoyment to be derived from the accumulation is dependent upon interest rates.

"Certainly for purposes of thrift present interest rates are too low and this factor produces some resistance to the sale of thrift programs, including life insurance. With the continuance of low interest rates there is bound to be less incentive to save, and at the same time, it costs more to provide for the benefits one hopes to obtain from savings. In plain English, the condition applied to life insurance means that it will cost more if low interest rates are to continue. This factor taken by itself will make it harder to sell life insurance in 1939 than in 1938.

"I think it follows from all that I have said that the only safe statement that can be made for 1939 is to say that, if 1939 shows an improvement in general business conditions over 1938, the life insurance business will show a proportionate gain."

Boston Mutual Had Big Year

"The record of the Boston Mu... Life Insurance ... 1938 is gratifying and one of the best in the 58 years of its existence," President Jay R. Benton reported to the board of directors at their meeting this week.

"Boston Mutual increased its business for the year three million and entered 1939 with over $68,000,000 insurance in force and has now over 240,000 policyholders. Ledger assets increased during the past year 5½ per cent, making the total ledger assets as of December 31 $11,174,711.25. Excess of income over disbursements was $694,116.15 and over $100,000 was added to surplus.

"During the year the company invested $1,501,500 in bonds. Approximately 75 per cent of this or $1,136,844 was in United States Government bonds. The preponderance of investments in government obligations at low rates of interest reflects the difficult investment problem with which all investing institutions have been and are now faced."

...ets and ... Pass over $1,200,000 ... the ... ...ers' dividends were declared for the year on the same basis as in 1938, except that a special dividend of ... was declared. This ... increased the ... has been paid for ... which amount is the largest ever set aside for distribution in the history of the company.

"Nineteen thirty-eight has been a year of accomplishment and it will unique in the history of the company. We have seen material and satisfying additions to every phase of our operations.

"While general business conditions had their effect on conservation and premium income during the first six months of the year, new business was more than adequate to offset losses through lapsation. As a result we closed the year with more accident and health and life insurance in force than on December 31, 1937." During the past five years the company's accident and health insurance in force on a quarterly basis increased 45 per cent and life insurance in force increased 36 per cent.

"Investments in policy under our policy contracts when events make the need for such money urgent is the primary function of investment. THE OLD WORCESTER MUTUAL HAS NEVER MADE AN ASSESSMENT

One Of The Pioneers

Only four other companies were in operation when State Mutual's charter was authorized on March 16, 1844 by the Massachusetts legislature. The first policy contract was signed by John Davis, past Governor of Massachusetts and United States Senator, who was one of the founders of the Company and its first President.

The frontier was pushing westward in those days. Travel was extremely hazardous, and the first policy provisions were cognizant of the fact that death and accident often lay in wait for the traveler. Chicago was a city of 6,000 people; San Francisco was the San Francisco of the days before the gold rush of '49, sheltered 400 souls. The country between was mapped only in the minds of the few hardy frontiersmen who were beginning to penetrate the West.

This part of our country's history was long ago, yet even then State Mutual's principles of conservatism, and the recognition of policyholders' rights, were well established.

Co-op Banks Started Here

By WARNER M. ALLEN,
Executive Secretary Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League.

"Co-operative banks today are in position to increase their assets, overnight, by millions of dollars if they desire to take advantage of or care to accept the many tenders of funds seeking investment in lump sum shares.

WARNER M. ALLEN

"Every day the league office is continuing to receive by mail, telephone and wire, as well as to callers, inquiries as to which banks will accept such funds. And the number of these inquiries is on the increase. It shows the high favor in which our banks are held.

"Safety and not size is the aim of the co-operative banks. Accepting all the money offered would have added measurably to our individual and collective bank assets, yet it seemed the part of wisdom to be more concerned with the safety of our institutions.

"Information received from the United States Building and Loan League's headquarters shows that, based on a careful estimate, Massachusetts Co-operative Banks are about twenty per cent ahead of Building and Loan Associations of other states as a whole in their lending activity at present.

"Co-operative banking is in its sixty-second year in Massachusetts. It has grown from a conservative beginning to total assets of nearly $400,000,000. A noteworthy showing.

"Industry and business in general have benefited indirectly, but non the less certainly, because of the rolling up of small individual savings into the great $500,000,000 snowball during the first half-century of the league.

"So far as the individual co-operative banks go, the first one was organized in 1877.

"During the life of this first co-operative bank there have been depressions when some other investments and a few banks have been so hard hit that their owners and depositors have suffered heavy losses. Not so with a single co-operative bank depositor or shareholder in Massachusetts: always shareholders have been paid 100 cents on each dollar they have paid in, no matter which one of the more than 200 co-operative banks they did business with.

"No wonder the co-operative banks of Massachusetts are proud of their records, one and all! It is believed that no other line of investment or banking can show an equal number of years of service to the public without the loss of even one dollar to an investor or shareholder.

"Now, despite this record, the co-operative banks of this state have an added safety feature—a guarantee fund—which will take care of any emergency. Under the law, the banks are required to set aside regularly part of their earnings until the total amount of the guarantee fund equals 10 per cent of the bank's liabilities.

"Perhaps the first great test of the ability of co-operative banks to withstand adversity came during the 1890's and it is interesting in examining the records to note that during every year of that depression their assets increased substantially. They met the test most acceptably. The next hard test was in the 1930's. Again their record was excellent. They had only six per cent of their assets in foreclosed real estate, compared with the national average of nearly 20 per cent.

"The result was that at the end of 1937 total co-operative bank and building and loan association assets in the United States were 65.1 per cent of what they were at the high point in 1930. But here again is where Massachusetts made a most favorable showing. The co-operative banks in this state showed comparable figures of 75 per cent.

"The Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League has made important contributions to the whole building and loan business throughout the United States during its half-century of existence.

SAVING ONE OF ECONOMIC ESSENTIALS

Henry H. Pierce, president of the Merchants Co-operative Bank, in a recent discussion of the outlook for 1939 said:

"Every co-operative bank officer has had the opportunity of witnessing the distress and sorrow caused by spending—not saving and borrowing—not repaying. This unwise form of living is not to be wondered at in view of the example set in Washington of SPEND, spend now—BUY, buy now—BORROW, borrow now.

"According to the constitution of the United States, every individual is to be protected in his personal and property rights and is to have freedom of religion and speech. In exercising these rights every citizen must endeavor to maintain himself and any others whose responsibility he has assumed.

"If we continue to shift individual responsibility to our federal and state government, we will ultimately destroy the personal initiative and freedom which we have enjoyed. Every individual should live within his income and no individual should borrow in excess of his ability to repay.

"Today every person faces a limitation on earning power with increasing years. Just as machinery wears out and is replaced by new models, so are older workers replaced by younger ones. Therefore, every person should be careful not to obligate himself for more than he can take care of during his earning years.

"Our co-operative banks advocate and encourage the monthly systematic saving of a certain amount for whatever purpose the individual may desire. The amount put aside each month depends upon the earnings of the individual and the amount wished to be acquired in a given period of time. Systematic saving is beneficial to the individual because he receives liberal dividends on earnings on the money saved. The saver always has a cash reserve for emergency and also forms the habit of systematic saving.

"Our co-operative banks are sincere in their desire to assist those people who wish to purchase a home. Mortgage money is loaned to them on a monthly repayment basis. Only a sum which is beneficial to the borrower is loaned, thus enabling him to own his home free and clear in a given period of years without stress or worry. A man's home is his castle and may be a place of enjoyment without the burden of never-ending interest and principal payments, if purchased under the co-operative bank plan.

"Every co-operative bank in Massachusetts is mutually operated solely in the interest of customers. These banks have a record of safety never exceeded by any other financial institutions."

How Insurance Is Supervised In This State

By CHARLES F. HARRINGTON

[illegible] Massachusetts

The growth of [illegible] business in recent years in the life and casualty fields during the past [illegible] years has made it difficult to [illegible] the problems of Insurance supervision which have arisen because of this growth. In the space allotted to us we can but briefly comment upon the problems of the past nine months and state a few of our views concerning the future.

One of the big problems which confronts the insurance business as a result of the depression grows out of the foreclosure of real estate and [illegible] of mortgages that are held on the part of the companies. It has never been the desire of insurance companies to actually own large amounts of real estate. Executives of all life insurance companies are devoting much time and effort to solving the problem which confronts them in the disposition of this real estate which has been pressing them for [illegible].

This problem, by no means an easy one, may be the ultimate of these companies are [illegible] of the assets of the company which must be used [illegible] of the policyholders. The supervision has thrown a heavy burden upon the work of the insurance department because of a law which requires the approval of the commissioner in every case where a piece of property is to be held for a period in excess of five years.

Additional responsibility is placed upon the [illegible] of the insurance department because of the situation where policyholders must be placed upon real estate particularly farm property when they represent a large percentage of the assets of the insurance carrier.

The year has witnessed a reduction in premium writings of Life Insurance companies during the early part of the year but during the final months of the year there was a [illegible] over the [illegible] figures. We [illegible] a little early [illegible] to make a definite comment on the result of Life Insurance operations in Massachusetts for the year 1938 from the reports which we have received up to the present time it appears that a satisfactory year was experienced by most of the carriers operating within the Commonwealth.

In the casualty field the operation of the compulsory insurance law continues to present problems which cannot be thoroughly discussed at this time because of certain pending legislation. The department is striving, however, to protect both the insurance buyers and those injured in automobile accidents from the difficulties present ed by organized and mismanaged insurance organizations. To that end we have recommended legislation which will strengthen the laws which govern the formation of mutual casualty insurance companies.

The development of automobile fire and theft business has been rapid and like all mushroom growths has produced many problems which must be approached carefully and with considerable thought.

At present the difficulties surrounding the writing of automobile insurance company business is receiving considerable attention on the part of [illegible]. We in the Massachusetts department are watching the results of the [illegible] activities and considerable interest.

We urged at the Des Moines convention that the problem be studied by all interested parties and that a committee be [illegible] to act in the matter before the next session of the National Insurance Commissioners Convention. We feel confident that if interested parties give careful attention to these problems an amicable solution can be reached.

The Massachusetts Commissioner is charged with the responsibility of presiding over a committee appointed at the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners at Des Moines for the purpose of developing uniform Resident Agency Laws. We are studying the subject at the present time and we are hopeful that an acceptable law will be forthcoming from the committee, which may be enacted in all states. The necessity for more uniform insurance laws is apparent, if state supervision is to continue.

NEW home office of Monarch Life Insurance Co. in Springfield, Mass., a noteworthy milestone of the company's progress

Mass. Mutual One of Oldest

In 1851 a group of progressive [illegible] of western Massachusetts conceived the idea of organizing a [illegible] company in Springfield. On May 15 of that year, a charter was granted to the incorporators by the state legislature and the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company began its career.

In fact the capital stock of $[illegible] at the time of organization [illegible] even a mutual company was retired and the company became mutual in every sense of the word. Ten years after its [illegible] the company paid its [illegible] dividends and [illegible] that the Massachusetts Mutual began paying dividends annually as it has done ever since.

The [illegible] company from then on was phenomenal. In 1865 new [illegible] were established on Main street. Through the years insurance in force increased rapidly. In the [illegible] years from 1926 to 1936 the total insurance in force increased from $37,000,000 to $[illegible].

The Swing of INDUSTRY is to Northern New England

DURING the past few months there has been a very noticeable development of new business in Northern New England.

There are good reasons why you should locate your plant in Northern New England. There are lower operating costs—greater productive efficiency. Widespread power distribution and improved transportation facilities have fitted the smaller centers of population for industrial purposes.

Living costs are lower, a lower wage scale buys more than high wages in the large cities. Living conditions are pleasant, and home-owning within the reach of modern incomes, workers are conservative, productive, permanent. Going to and from work is unhurried and uncongested, valuable human energy is conserved.

Land is cheaper, taxes are lower, shipping facilities often less crowded, room for expansion plentiful. Fast freight and good roads have put the small towns in close touch with raw materials and markets.

Favorable Year Predicted for Textile Firms

By DOUGLAS G. WOOLF
Editor, Textile World

The textile industry approaches 1939 in a somewhat different outlook from that with which it entered in 1938. At that time the 1937 bubble had burst and the industry was in the very middle of a depression. Today it has had six months of recovery and is in the middle of that upward movement.

The business curve of 1938 was just the reverse of that of the previous year. In 1937 there was a spurt in the first half of activity followed by a half year of collapse. In 1938 a reverse condition developed. The year was started at the first half with recovery progressing, but then in the second half. The result was that the average monthly activity of textile mills during the second half of the year was about the same as that for the first six months. While activity at the middle of the year was only about 60% of capacity, it was increased to something like 80% at the end of the year. [illegible]

The coming year should be the most successful that Massachusetts industries have had since 1929. # Hygrade Lamp A Revelation For Color Matching

"Judging by our own experience in 1938," says Mr. F. J. Healy, general manager of the Hygrade Lamp Division of Hygrade Sylvania Corporation, "we can see no reason why we should not look forward to 1939 with eager anticipation. We think it will be a good year for the lighting industry.

"In particular we point to the Fluorescent Lamp, which was first announced to the trade less than three months ago. This new lamp is probably the greatest development in the field of lighting since Edison's invention of the first incandescent lamp.

"The Daylight Fluorescent Lamp more efficiently approaches actual daylight in the quality of the light produced than artificial lighting previously produced. It permits accurate color-matching by artificial light, which automatically opens up a tremendous market in textile mills, apparel shops, and wherever also fabrics or other materials must be viewed in their true colors.

"GANGING UP!"

OUR ARTIST'S cartoon accurately depicts the situation in Washington where Communists, Fascists, Nazis and their fellow travelers are united in opposition to the patriotic proposal that Congress continue the Dies Committee.

Reds, Pinks and so-named "liberals" and their ilk object to the Dies Committee because almost without exception they FEAR IT; because they know that subversive activities and European-inspired ideologies in our nation cannot endure the light of democratic publicity.

Like moles they are determined to work in the dark, gnawing and undermining the foundations of Americanism.

But—and it is fortunate for the future security of the United States—the overwhelming majority of the American people ENDORSE the Dies Committee and DEMAND that Congress permit it to complete its indiscriminate investigations.

As is shown by the impartial Gallup Poll, 74 PER CENT OF THE PEOPLE want the Committee retained, and 74 per cent of the people are going to have their will nullified by a loud-mouthed but well-numbered radical minority.

The investigative work of the Dies Committee should and WILL be continued.

asks Dr Tracy B. Mallory [illegible] professor, who answers his question with an emphatic YES."

Like many [illegible] including our own State Department of Health, Dr Mallory deplores the fatalistic sentiment with which people greet [illegible] disease. He wisely observes:

"The fact that cancer is never cured is to bespeak ignorance—or [illegible] of the present day is untrue. As every cancer [illegible] carefully checked records of hundreds of cases [illegible]

Because of this belief thousands of men and women avoid doctors [illegible] drive them to hospitals. Then, much too frequently, [illegible] is found to have advanced beyond the cure stage.

The important thing to do is to consult the family physician the day he suspects cancer.

WOMEN'S COURAGE,

We refer to the tragic disaster that befell the Bermuda-bound Imperial Air Line plane and the heroism of its female passengers.

"They say the 'males are the weaker sex, but while all the men were [illegible] about passed out, the women kept on singing and laughing and joking with us seamen on the way back to the ship."

Perfect Waiter Is Wonder Man

By DAMON RUNYON

[illegible]

A FAVORITE CRACK of fretful hotel and restaurant diners when peeved at a waiter's error is: "Well, if he knew any better he wouldn't be a waiter."

Now that is not only a most inconsiderate and boorish remark, but it proves that the diner making it has no appreciation of one of the more skilled branches of human employment.

The remark suggests that a certain stupidity goes with the profession of waiter when as a matter of fact there are few occupations that require MORE INTELLIGENCE and none that require MORE TACT. We understand of course that there are waiters and waiters. There are good waiters and bad waiters. We agree that the bad waiter is an abomination, but we hold that the good waiter is an artist, and a delight to the soul.

LIFE OFFERS no greater pleasure and comfort than walking into a well ordered dining room and undergoing the ministrations of a soft stepping, swiftly moving waiter who has that knowledge and pride in his profession that makes the perfect waiter, than which there is no brighter jewel among the treasurers of the earth.

We are one of those fellows who are peculiarly sensitive to waiters. If we go into a place, say for breakfast, we can determine the waiter's degree of efficiency the instant he approaches us. He does not have to speak. Occasionally just the way a waiter walks up to us starts our hackles rising, and then there is no chance of us enjoying our fodder. The guy spoils the whole day for us.

It does not follow that he is a bad waiter in the matter of mechanical skill in serving, but the art of the waiter goes beyond mere mechanical skill, we think.

We have found the perfect waiter not only in the swanky spots of New York City, but in roadside grease joints. In fact, we have found in these places waiters of such deportment and efficiency in their profession that our admiration for them stilled any contemptible remarks about the food. It may be our customers' or hers, a waiter but good service can [illegible] one bad [illegible]

NATURALLY the better the place the better the waiters are likely to be. We know you pay high prices for the [illegible] are entitled to high priced service. In some of those right classy spots in New York City you get not only a couple of waiters but a captain or [illegible] for your table and after you see your check you generally feel that you should have also had one of the proprietors working on you.

A waiter is paid a comparatively pitiful weekly salary. In many cases it is no more than a dollar a day. He is supposed to make up a living wage on tips. If he has a terrific run of tightwads he may have a very bad week indeed. The gold rush, when a top notch waiter in a Broadway restaurant or night club easily averaged $100 a week ended a long time ago.

Against what is required of him in service, politeness, and good humor we think the waiter is one of the most underpaid of all employes nowadays, especially when you consider that it is a lifetime occupation with many of them. You probably never thought of it in that light, but the waiter is an extremely important factor in the daily life of a city in these times—and, we might add, the waitress [illegible] can come pretty good, too.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHO SAYS Women can't be broad-minded . . . play the political game as fairly as men?

Scores before I've uttered some such comments myself. But here's where I eat my words and start a round of cheers for Mrs. Mary Bettwy, Democratic recorder-elect of Santa Cruz County, Arizona.

For years women have held the Recorder's job in Santa Cruz County which naturally means considerable rackets at every campaign. The last was no exception.

Mrs. Mae Bettwy was running for the first time. Opposed to her was Mrs. Ada Jones, a right smart lady who'd served several terms in the same position. Came the great day and Mary B. went home to bed with everyone wondering which of her many devoted friends she'd choose as deputy. A foolish question, since each D. F. naturally considered herself personally qualified for the chore . . . and all set for a good Hard Cry if she didn't get it.

DESPITE WHICH, MRS. BETTWY PROCEEDED TO IGNORE HER BOSOM CHUMS AND APPOINT HER ERSTWHILE OPPONENT, MRS. ADA JONES, TO THE JOB.

AGITATION? Consternation? What did she mean? It meant that a woman at least had had enough spark to defy entrenched sentimentality and take a fair, cool view of the issue at hand. Said Mary B.:

Despite the fact Mrs. Jones was my opponent, I recognized in her a very capable woman. I wanted capability in my administration so I felt it to my best interests and those of the county TO APPOINT HER.

Which, sez I, is not only slick politics but, perhaps, a bit of the type that females are becoming popular Citizens. Which takes more gumption as well as brains, folks, than one might muster at first thought.

DEE MOM DEE-tects our pet peeve. She was for the boys keeping the kids at home, a cozy fireside and Early Old Man of Order. If her interests didn't extend beyond her own back yard, who can blame her? Yet it certainly did convey a marked tendency to Mom to See Things Her Own Way . . . and raise "Cain" with anyone who didn't.

Yet in the face of ages 'n ages of such practice, Mary B. comes along and shoves personalities aside, and demands Ability be paid first. Did I say that was playing the game as fairly as a man? Actually it's playing it with far more fairness and intelligence than most men could muster.

This isn't merely a political gesture . . . it's a gesture that yanks the whole human race up to a higher plane of civilization and should set new standards for human performance all along the line. Atta girl Mary B.! Keep it up!

Here it comes again, your annual request to be GUILTY NOT GUILTY in the "Listen World" spare me yourself telling all Aunt Sue's YOUR side of your pet problems. "Dear Dotty: Yeah, man! So let's go. We doesn't matter name and address printed or withheld, as you wish. Any lonely little dots though, for reasons, too deep for discussion of religion or politics are not eligible. Lengthiest song than 250 words. Offer open so hurry, hurry and remember FIRST COME GETS WARMEST WELCOME!

Underlying Reason for Chic

By ANNICE BRINK

THEY TELL us that jitterbugging has helped the return of lace flounces on petticoats (if that isn't a quaint thought—this ultra-modern jig combined with old-fashioned frills), and like as not the ruffly laces are enhanced by beading that has real, drawn-through ribbons.

"Jitterbug" is the name of this very pretty silk and rayon slip we've discovered for dancing daughters, and sure enough the ribbons are drawn through the deep ruffle of a lencon-type lace. It's $1.49, and for a dollar there's a waist-high petticoat like it.

'Buttercups,' Tasty Dish

ON MARTHA LEEB WEDNESDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A. M.

Bread has always been one of the important foods in our three meals a day. Usually it appears on the table fresh from the bakery oven or your own and served with butter and 'spreads.'

Remember too, besides making food more flavorsome, using bread as a basic ingredient makes the recipe economical as well.

"Buttercups" which are made of bread and filled with creamed meat or chicken look attractive on a party luncheon plate and taste good too. One young lady of our acquaintance insists upon calling these little bread cups "rosebuds" so take your choice or call them "daisies" for that matter.

CREAMED SHRIMP IN BUTTERCUPS

To make Buttercups trim crusts from slices of white bread. Butter both sides of each slice lightly. Then press each slice into a muffin cup and toast in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until the tips are golden brown. Fill with creamed shrimp chicken a la king or other creamy mixture.

Buttercups may be made in advance and reheated just before serving.

CREAMED SHRIMP

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked shrimps

Melt butter in pan add flour stirring until smooth. Add milk gradually stirring constantly. Add salt and shrimps. Heat thoroughly and serve in hot buttercups.

Rich Cream Saves Throatline

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU MAY be one of the knowing few who lubricate their throats with a fine cream every night of their lives . . . but if you, too, use the same cream on your throat that you use on your face . . . you aren't really saving your neck!

Take all the credit you want for recognizing the special need of the throat for a cream that will ward off crepiness, yellowness and an old, dry look. We're with you in feeling that by the time you manage to acquire sables and a heavy necklace that alternates square emeralds and black pearls you want your throat to be as lovely as they . . . and the answer is to use a cream that's heavier in texture and richer than what your face tissues require.

One of the fastest selling creams for this purpose is a "special formula" cream that's richer than any Christmas plum pudding you ever ate . . . and heavy with its highly concentrated lubricants.

In spite of its super-richness, you will note that it melts instantly on your fingers. And using this little trick, you can turn it into a particularly efficacious eye cream. To use several times a week. Just let a good bit of it melt on your fingers, then when it's in liquid state smooth it around your eyes.

Never before in its history has this cream ever been reduced in price, so we were particularly excited about the news that the regular $2 jar is going on a 50 per cent discount sale for only one week starting next Friday.

If you've caught a profile view of yourself unexpectedly and realized with a shock that your throatline isn't all it might be, try the rapid rejuvenating powers of this special formula cream.

To learn about this dollar sale of special formula cream for throat (once a week face treatment for extra dry skins, too) or around the eyes, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five-thirty or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Before she leaves town, Ethelind and Mr. Robertson will sing a duet together . . . It will not be a number from "Nina Rosa," as orchestrations of the show's score have been withdrawn from publica tion . . .

Foiling the Man With the Scythe:

At the South Department of City Hospital, a Boston girl will be asked today, to help promote interest in this year's President's Ball, to be held next Monday at the Boston Garden . . . She is Miss Celia Surowsky of Kensington street, Roxbury . . .

In [illegible] Miss Surowsky was admitted to the hospital a [illegible] all "polyo" (acute anterior poliomyelitis) patients particularly since the tenure of [illegible] has been fighting as infantile paraly sis . . .

Miss Surowsky has been in an "iron lung" for the past six years . . . When Stephen H. Hughes, the alert director of the municipal employment bureau, was asked to take part in a Friday afternoon broadcast in aid of the forthcoming President's Ball, he recalled that the City Hospita l had an "iron lung" patient . . . He thought it might make Boston more aware of the ravages of the cruel disease than anything he might say by arranging a "hookup" to Miss Surowsky's "iron lung" . . . There is a good chance of it being arranged . . .

The Date Is Monday, Jan. 30:

A few last words on the affair at the Garden next Monday . . . The proceeds, as is known generally, go to the fund to fight infantile paralysis . . . Half of the money will be given to the national fund, and half will be turned over to the Boston district . . .

There may be some who doubt that infantile is a constant threat to the children of any community . . . How many know that right here in Boston, in the late summer of 1935, an actual epidemic struck the city? . . . Newspapers do not "play up" epidemics . . . The health authorities ask assistance, and get it, in so worthy a cause as averting a possible panic . . .

[illegible] the year 1935, the Boston City Hos[illegible] more than 9 cases of infantile . . . And when the [illegible] were received in a 36 hour [illegible] . . . The hospital [illegible] or possibly Dr. Louis I. [illegible] this column remembers [illegible] will support these efforts . . .

Bees Make History; No Holdouts in Sight

IT BEGINS TO LOOK AS THOUGH the Boston Bees will have no holdouts this Spring. What! No holdouts? What kind of a training camp do you call that? How are we journalists going to color our essays from the South? And what will Bradenton be without some salary commotions to keep the home wires burning?

AUSTEN LAKE

Why there have always been holdouts!

The answer is simple! In the three years since Bob Quinn assumed command the Bees have discovered three vital facts, (1) that Bob pays wages commensurate with the work, (2) he rarely deviates from the first contract figure and cannot be coerced, and (3) he is baseball's toughest tyke in a money fuss.

Quinn has a system! He never takes offense if a hired man thinks, and says, he is worth more money. In several instances he has sweetened the pot when the athlete broached the subject tactfully. But few ball players have delicacy where money is concerned.

The last Bee holdouts which were Buck Jordan in '37 and Walter Berger and Hal Lee in '38, were typical of the scandalized screams enclosed with rejected contracts and which always raise the hackles on Quinn's spine.

[illegible] and Jordan yelled by mail. You [illegible] So the fight was on with the press filing the [illegible] In Lees case Quinn just severed postal [illegible] He wrote [illegible] was by continued silence wandered [illegible] and was about to sign the [illegible] as Lee hastened up.

AND WHEN BOB BARGES UP MY FRIENDS. It is a sight to see. He walks on the balls of his feet with a curious waggle of the hips and [illegible] He has hypnotic light in his pale eyes [illegible] at the back of his jaws.

So Bob said, "Stay your hand Sirrah," or words to that effect, "Touch not a single pen."

And from there on, in his rich prose style Bob told Lee to do, his [illegible] and he hunched himself [illegible] at the angle of persuasion not to taint the pure and [illegible] by contented ball players.

[illegible] off a pace of [illegible] He was a [illegible] He had had success in [illegible] athletes. I [illegible]

"And furthermore . . ." resumed Quinn, gulping air for a fresh fight. For the little man was in forensic fettle.

"I'll sign, Bob!" said Lee.

"What?" snapped Bob, his mouth still full of words.

"I'll sign, Mr. Quinn," said Lee. And that was that.

JORDAN'S CASE WAS DIFFERENT. At the boiling point of the argument he got Quinn on the telephone. Only, as far as Bob was concerned, no telephone was needed. Because he could have stuck his head out of his St. Petersburg window and been heard by naked ear in Sarasota, N. C., where Jordan was hoeing the lime.

The [illegible] cost Buck $2.50 but it cost the telephone company a larger sum to fix the [illegible] burnt out fuses and stripped insulation. And shortly afterward Bob traded Buck to Cincinnati. And that was that.

Still Quinn has his softer side in money matters. Three years ago I happened to be sitting in his uptown office when Guy Bush reported after having been released by the Cubs as a free agent. Quinn agreed to pay him what he had drawn from the Cubs. It sounded generous. Bush was without a job. But still he hesitated.

"What's on your mind?" urged Quinn.

Bush wanted to get paid to the [illegible] for the ten days when he didn't have any job. And he wanted rail fare and meal money to Baxter and the cost of transporting his furniture, etc. The extras [illegible] amounted to $700 but Quinn just chuckled and wrote a cashier's draft.

[illegible]

QUINN'S SYSTEM WITH HOLDOUTS is simple. He refuses to [illegible] and [illegible] ball players on the training scene. If they want to [illegible] the time to [illegible] is before training begins and there after, man. But before Bob's time the holdout Bruins used to come [illegible] and either loiter the days away at no expense to themselves or go through [illegible] motions until practice field.

Judge Emil [illegible] and scout boss who entertained his mates and [illegible] to do their quarters where they ate his meals, played [illegible] rubbers of bridge and enjoyed the sunshine of his smile. There were as many as ten holdouts each spring, while Fuchs gradually [illegible] them greed by boosting his price while the athletes lowered theirs until they reached a mutual level.

The Judge always talked about money in a low, modulated tone and bent a look of benevolence and melancholy on his rebels. He regarded himself as a [illegible] leader of loyal followers. But Quinn has no illusions.

Quinn pays what he thinks his men are worth and adds a little something in the knowledge that what he thinks and what they think is sure to be several fathoms apart. As an old ball player he knows the [illegible] to keep an athlete satisfied [illegible] Hence [illegible] Q. E. D.

Champion to Win Early--Conway

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—Joe Louis looks like a cinch to win over John Henry Lewis in their 15-round battle for the World's heavyweight championship in Madison Square Garden tonight. Louis should stop Lewis inside of ten rounds.

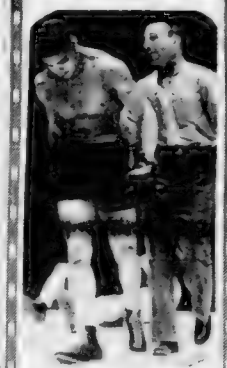
There is very little betting on the outcomeof the bout. What few wagers have been made have been placed at odds of 10 to 1 with Louis the favorite. These are the longest odds on a championship bout since Jimmy Braddock, the short ender, upset the dope by outscoring Max Baer.

Top—Louis Escorted to Garden



Middle—Louis Dumps Foe

Bottom—Louis Declared Winner

Most of the betting is on the number of rounds the bout will last. The betting is at even money that Louis will win inside of four rounds, while you can get 3 to 1 that the champion will chill Lewis inside of ten heats.

LEWIS GOING BACK

There is not any wild excitement in connection with the match. While there are sportswriters here from every section of the United States and from Canada, the public has failed to get steamed up over the match.

Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club insists the match will draw $100,000.

Lewis has been going back for the past year and is not generally rated in the same class with Louis. The latter will also carry a big weight advantage which will be a tremendous advantage to him the longer the bout goes.

Maggy Taylor Philadelphia promoter is here for the fight. He told me he is prepared to guarantee Louis $400,000 to meet Tony

GEHRIG SIGNS CONTRACT

Reported Taking Small Cut

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Lou Gehrig, durable first baseman of the New York Yankees, signed his 1939 contract today for his 15th season with baseball's world champions.

Although the terms of the contract were not announced, it is believed Gehrig took a slight cut from his last year's salary of $39,000. Last year he had one of his poorest seasons, batting only .295, the first time in his career as a regular that he dropped below .300.

ALWAYS HOLDOUT

It was the first time since 1934 that Gehrig had no contract wrangles with the Yankees. In 1935, when he received $30,000, he signed on February 19; in 1936 he blew was late; in 1937 it was March 18 before he and the late Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, could come to terms at $36,000 and last winter he did not sign his contract until March 12, at St. Petersburg, Fla., the Yankee training base.

TO GET EARLY START

Gehrig plans to go South with the first Yankee squad around February 27. The big first baseman, who got off to such a poor start last year that he was dropped from fourth place to sixth in the batting order, nevertheless ran on consecutive-game streak to 2122 and that despite the fact he broke his thumb on July 17.

He broke into the Yankee lineup on June 1 1925 as a pinch hitter, replaced Wally Pipp on first base the following afternoon and has been there ever since.

ONE FOR VINES

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 25 (INS)—Dazzy Vance, veteran baseball pitcher in fine form, pitched three hitless innings against the Washington Senators here today in the 16th inning of a game played to a scoreless tie.

WHISTLING A MERRY TUNE. Lou Gehrig came to terms with the Yankees today for a slight pay slash from his $39,000 of last year. He did not take a $9000 slice as rumored.

Collins Thrilled By New Honors

By BILL GRIMES

"During my 30-odd years in baseball," admitted Eddie Collins, this morning at Fenway Park, "I've experienced many thrills, but I question if any were measurable to that of being voted into the Hall of Fame."

Any youngster who steps from college baseball to the major league and stays under the big tent for two decades is most deserving of the highest honors that the Baseball Writers of America can bestow on him.

For years Eddie Collins was noted as the greatest all-around player in baseball. He was not only a sensation defensively but he compiled a life time batting average of .333. He played in six World Series four under Connie Mack and two with the Chicago White Sox.

According to Connie Mack, Eddie Collins did more to win American League pennants for him "than any other player."

CHANGED NAME

It was Eddie's ambition, as a boy, to play baseball, so he left his home in Cincinnati, where Larry Doyle and Connie Mack were performing. Tom Murphy, a baseball writer, suggested that Eddie change his name to Collins, so he would not disgrace the Murphy name. Eddie followed the suggestion and became Eddie Collins.

When Connie Mack first interviewed Tom Murphy from Eddie Collins, Eddie was playing baseball at Columbia University. Connie Mack was looking for a second baseman and Murphy told him that Eddie Collins was the best second baseman in the college game. But, in appreciation of his athletic achievements, Columbia made him the team's baseball coach and he refused a nice salary during his senior year at University Heights.

Eddie Collins reported to Connie Mack in 1907. He was tried out at third base and then at shortstop but at neither position did he impress Connie. So Eddie spent most of that season on the bench.

PLAYED FOR NEWARK

However, during Collins' first major year in the American League, there were two men who had a good deal to say in Eddie's affairs. One was Connie Mack and the other Connie himself.

Before he had a chance to display his wares, Collins and the Athletics played four games in Newark, in the International League. Newark was one of the strongest minor league clubs and Connie Mack sent Collins there to fill the gap.

After the Athletics took the field in the opening game of the season, Eddie Collins was at second base. He was batting .400 and Connie Mack was pleased with the performance of Collins. Finally Eddie Collins and Jack Coombs, Athletic pitching star, were traded to the Chicago White Sox for Frank Owen, pitcher, and Jim Walsh, infielder.

By the time Collins reported to Chicago, Connie Mack had changed his mind about Eddie and wanted him back. But Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, refused to trade Collins to Connie Mack. Yankees purchased the contract of Eddie Collins from the White Sox for $50,000.

Sport-O-Grimes

Eddie Collins should have been made a charter member of Baseball's Hall of Fame . . . Few ball players can match "Cocky's" American League figures . . . And, bear in mind that he came through the Black Sox scandal with flying colors . . . Although they made enough mistakes to lose, the Bruins were in a scoring mood last night against Les Canadiens . . . Eddie Ambois, who is playing with the New Haven Eagles, dropped in to see Les Canadiens tangle with the Rossmen . . . The secretary of the Flying Frenchmen intends to have his say and if the other governors do not like his "line" they can toss him out . . . He's under the impression that the N. H. Little Charlie Sutcliffe, who stepped up from Salisbury, N. C., a Class C. club, to the Bees last season, came up from Fall River yesterday, sat in with Bob Quinn and signed . . . If his arm is right, Sutcliffe has an even chance of staying with the Stengelers . . . ## Ruth's Mark Will Go, Foxx Says

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25 (INS)—Jimmy Foxx, holder of the American League batting championship with an average of .349 for the 1938 season, believes Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs will be wiped out "eventually."

"Why not?" asked the burly first baseman of the Boston Red Sox today.

"Hank Greenberg of Detroit and I both have smacked 58 homers in a season—and if we can come that close, it seems likely that somebody will squeeze out three more circuit clouts for a new mark."

Modesty, although unique to many a player, forbade Jimmy from hazarding an opinion on his own chances of breaking the old Bambino's record. But Foxx asserted, without hesitation, "I'll bust there trying."

GOING EASY

Jimmy's taking things easy right now at his home in suburban Abington, rounding into shape for pre-season drills—and waiting to see what kind of a contract owner Tom Yawkey will send him. He wants a pay raise, but he isn't expecting any contract trouble.

Jimmy said he hadn't had any conversations about salary with Yawkey yet, and until he does, the 1938 batting champ is biding his time. The former Maryland farm boy plans to work out for a fortnight at Hot Springs, preliminary to the Southern training season beginning about March 1.

NO CHANCE FOR MONTE

Foxx is skeptical of the power baseball clubs formed by Monte Stratton, ace Chicago White Sox hurler whose leg was amputated after a recent hunting accident. Stratton, according to reports, may be able to pitch next season despite the handicap of a wooden leg.

"In the first place," explained Jimmy, "I seriously doubt if Monte could get around fast enough on his wooden leg. He might be able to pitch just as well as he did early last season, but the batters would probably bunt him to death."

Foxx predicted that Lefty Grove, ex-Red Sox hurler, will help the Yankees a good fight in the American League pennant race.

Cubs Quit Hunt For First Sacker

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (AP)—With the Chicago Cubs have decided to defend their National League championship without a first baseman.

Clarence Rowland of the Cubs business office announced officially and formally the club had given up hope of obtaining Sam Johnny Mize from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Manager Gabby Hartnett announced a month ago that the Cubs didn't mind a bargain for the spot. Phil Cavarretta would have the job from Bill Cubs, [illegible] last season.

Hartnett said:

"We did all we could to get Mize and there's no sense in trying further."

Tony Galento Seeks Baer, Then Louis | Britt-Cocoa Kid In Title Bout

By JACK CONWAY

TONY GALENTO the Newark tavern keeper who is expected to knock out Natie Brown in Detroit on February 3, is interested in only two major fights . . . He would like to clash with Max Baer in Philadelphia for Muggsy Taylor, and then if he wins take on Joe Louis in the City of Brotherly Love . . . Galento believes he could beat Baer, while he is willing to take his chances as to what may happen in a meeting with Louis . . . Tony will be at least sure of a good pay-off win, lose or draw.

Mr. Boston

Galento at the age of 36, fat and slow, has made a decided appeal to the public . . . This is partially due to the fact that the heavyweight crop is so poor that Galento at least gives the fans a laugh . . . Galento is a good puncher and so looks impressive as he hits the ordinary run of heavyweights on the chin . . . Old fighters, like old ball players, can hit when they cannot move two feet.

Frankie Britt of Fall River will get a crack at the New England welterweight championship when he collides with the Cocoa Kid in a ten-round bout in Fall River tomorrow night . . . Ralph Zannelli's attack of boils gave Britt his title shot . . . The Cocoa Kid and Zannelli were signed to meet in Providence, but it was necessary to call off the match when Zannelli was kayoed by a flock of boils . . . Britt now insists he will win from the clever Cocoa Kid.

Hubert Valentine Greets Steve Casey

HUBERT VALENTINE, Irish tenor, came into Boston from Worcester to wish Steve Casey, Irish heavyweight wrestler and world's champion, success in his Western tour that starts on February 3 with a match at Houston, Tex. . . . Valentine has been one of Steve's warmest rooters . . . Valentine continues to show a total disregard of some of the high pressure commercial methods shown by other singers . . . Hubert passed up a $1000 radio offer for a single appearance so that he could sing at a concert for the veterans at the Rutland Hospital . . . Valentine made a tremendous hit with the war heroes . . . The Irish tenor was presented with a silver fountain pen by members of the Irish Free State army when he left for his American tour, and has always been on friendly terms with service men.

Valentine told me he has signed for concert appearances in New Bedford on February 12. Springfield on February 15, Hartford on February 18 and at the Catholic High School in Malden on March 19 and 21 . . . The South Boston Order of Hibernians is negotiating for Valentine to appear at the Municipay Building in South Boston in March.

Tony Ferry Favorite to Win

TONY FERRY, Fall River amateur heavyweight, is a favorite to win in the grand national finals of the Hearst All-America boxing tournament that will be held in the Olympia in Detroit on Friday night . . . Ferry is a good boxer, hard puncher, and has made better progress than most amateur heavyweights . . . Ferry was included in the party of five New England boxers who left for the Detroit tournament . . . The other New England simon pures who will compete in Detroit are Tony Davis, Providence flyweight; Dominic DeCiantis, Providence lightweight; Al Priest, Cambridge welterweight, and Johnny Hayes, Roxbury light-heavyweight . . . Hayes is one of the most destructive amateur boxers I have ever seen in action . . . The Roxbury thumper has a chance of knocking out any amateur light heavyweight he can hit.

Dominic Perfetti, who will represent the All-Eastern team in the 118-pound division, has a good chance to win . . . Perfetti is a better than average boxer . . . Johnny Delsanno, 126 pounds, and Vince Fratello, 160 pounds, are the New York members of the All-Eastern team, and should do well at Detroit.

George Freeman of the Irish-American A. A. will handle the All-Eastern boxers.

Louis' Big Weight Advantage

JOE LOUIS' DECIDED weight advantage should enable him to win from John Henry Lewis, former world's light heavyweight champion, in their 15-round bout in New York tonight . . . Lewis cannot afford to give away weight to a top fighter like the "Brown Bomber" . . . One of the strange things about this bout is that Louis would never have accepted it if he did not believe Lewis has been going back for the past year.

When Louis first won the title by defeating Jimmy Braddock he drew the "color line" . . . He did this to avoid a meeting with John Henry Lewis . . . The latter then got into ring difficulties, and among other things had trouble winning from the inexperienced Jimmy Adamie . . . The Louis management then decided to accept John Henry Lewis as an opponent.

Fast Field In Prout High Jump

By MURRAY KRAMER

For days conversation has been along the lines of the great mile and the brilliant field in the 600 at the Prout Games, Saturday, but little has been said about the high jump.

Yet, this event is apt to win top honors for track fanatics want records and if there is any one spot on the card where a mark is apt to go it's in the high jump.

Bostonians have been reading avidly of the tales of kangaroo lads who go up to six feet four inches without even shedding sweat clothes and then hit as high as 6:10.

But here in these parts, the achievements have been only newspaper hearsay. That is, with the exception of that one performance by George Spitz back in the old B. A. A. Games which were held at the Boston Arena in 1932 when the New York University ace amazed the gathering with a 6:8½ leap.

For some strange reason, though, the best that has ever been done in the Prout Games history is 6:6, but it's a cinch that this figure will go by the boards.

Entered in this event we have Mel Walker, Toledo; Dave Albritton, Cleveland; Al Threadgill, Philadelphia; Danny Miles, Northeastern; Bob Haydock, Harvard; Arthur Byrnes, Manhattan, and a host of others.

RECORD BREAKING FIELD

And here is a record breaking field if there ever was one. Of course, the gentleman to watch is Mel Walker, former Ohio State ace, who holds as many records over the cross bar as Lou Gehrig does around first base.

He has cleared 6:10½ outdoors for an unofficial world's record and has topped 6:9¾ indoors for a recognized world mark.

The question arises, however, why Walker flopped last year.

Mel answers this in a letter which arrived at the K. of C. headquarters this morning. In it he stated:

"I had a great deal of trouble with shoes last year and particularly in the Prout Games, my efforts were not up to standard. I have remedied the situation by having special shoes made which I know will aid me greatly."

ALBRITTON FIT, READY

Dave Albritton is fit and always dangerous while Arthur Byrne, pride of Manhattan, did a mere 6:7 in flat soled shoes last Saturday night.

Threadgill, former Temple great, is a veteran of many wars but always a consistent performer up to 6:6.

And locally we have Miles, captain of the Northeastern and Haydock, Harvard's leader. Last week at Bates, Miles cleared 6:6¾ although a later check at the bar resulted in the officials deciding on a 6:5 performance. The jump showed, though, that Denny is primed and may really be a factor.

Collegiate Five At West End House

On Saturday evening, the West End House is proud to present the Metropolitan College All-Stars of New York. This attraction promises to be the outstanding event of the local basketball season.

The College All-Stars present a star-studded lineup, including: Dave Diperstein of C. C. N. Y., 'Babe' Adler of C. C. N. Y., Irv Schnadow of C. C. N. Y., Hy Cooperman of N. Y. U. and Chubby Sherman of L. I. U.

FRIEDKIN, FONTANA DRAW

Armstrong Bout Goal Of Both Ring Principals

Just Give Me One More Chance

Lou Ambers watches Henry Armstrong have his eyes examined by Dr. William Walker before their memorable championship bout. Lou wants his title back. Henry took it away from him.

Lou Ambers, Herkimer, N. Y., Hurricane, expects one of the toughest fights when he tackles Paul Junior, Lewiston, Me., in the 10-round main bout of the Goodwin A. C. boxing show Friday night at the Boston Garden.

A report that Junior might catch Ambers overconfident in their clash here is completely dispelled by word from Ambers himself, who admits he's not the least bit certain of victory in this one.

Junior has had over 300 fights and lost only a few of them. Ambers, hot on the trail of Henry Armstrong, lightweight champion of the world, is going to shoot for a k. o. victory over Junior, he admits. But he's ready to go 10 rounds at top speed.

Ambers continues to rule a 5-3 favorite over Junior, uncrowned N. E. lightweight champion. But there are hundreds of fight fans who think Paul Junior will upset the Hurricane and thus win himself a major bout.

Matchmaker Rip Valenti of the Goodwin Club is ready to offer Henry Armstrong $15,000 to come here and fight Paul Junior, provided Junior beats Ambers. Thus the Pine Tree State puncher is in the best spot of his career with opportunity beckoning.

A sparkling preliminary card will be Carl Dell, N. Y., vs. Bobby Allen, Nova Scotia; Jerry Zullo, Chelsea, vs. K. O. Labbe, brother of Paul Junior, Lewiston, Me.; Tickey Ford, Lawrence, making his debut with the pros, vs. Jack Haggerty, Worcester; George Salamone, East Boston, vs. Frank Conti, Haverhill, and Henry Chmielewski, Polish sensation, vs. Jack McClelland.

Louis-Lewis Predictions

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (INS)—Here are the pre-battle statements of the two principals in tonight's fight:

By JOE LOUIS

"John Henry Lewis will be just another fighter to me tonight. I will win just as soon as I can. It all depends on whether John Henry makes a fight of it. If he runs or won't open up, it may take a little longer than the three rounds I figure on. If he stands up to me I don't think it will go further than that.'

By JOHN HENRY LEWIS

"I know I am a better boxer than Louis and faster on my feet. I've had more experience. I am not going to gamble on a knockout unless the chance is too good to miss but I expect to be there at the end of 15 rounds to accept the decision. If it goes that far I am sure to outpoint him. I am not afraid of him but of course I respect his punching ability.'

EASTERN MAGNATES MEET

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Jan. 25 (AP)—President Thomas H. Richardson of the Eastern Baseball League called a meeting of club owners in New York City, Sunday, February 5, to discuss the schedule for the 1939 season.

English, Commerce Dominate Ice Card

Opening the weekly session of the Boston schoolboy hockey conference, English and Commerce sextets promise to steal the thunder of the ice program when the teams clash in the feature of the four-game round at the Arena tomorrow afternoon.

In the other three contests, East Boston faces Jamaica Plain, Roslindale tackles South Boston and Hyde Park battles Brighton.

Favored by a two-weeks layoff, in which the team worked out daily, English stands a fine chance of tipping over the powerful Commerce club to register its third straight triumph of the season.

In its last start, the Blue and Blue blanked Dorchester as Ed Clarke, Bill Doherty and Mal Malkasian set the pace and this trio on the starting line should put Bill Ohrenberger's outfit into the scoring column.

O'MALLEY IN NET

Charlie O'Malley, in the nets, has been playing a fine game and the added practice has improved his goal tending tremendously.

Commerce, rated the outstanding six in the circuit at the start of the campaign, dropped a close decision to Latin in its last game and is doubly anxious to tip over the English colors.

Dick Killion, Fran Curtis and Earl Hudgins offer a serious threat to any opponent. Should this trio resume their early pace, the Bookkeepers stand a fine chance of getting back on the winning side of the slate.

Jamaica Plain, deadlocked in its last tilt, will be a slight favorite to tip over East Botson in the second game on the card. Ed Finnerty, second line left winger, set a dizzy pace in personally leading the Plainers to a tie against Roslindale and should lead the way for a Jimmy Duffy victory over the Noddle Islanders.

SOUTHIE SEXTET DUE

Tom Gill, Charlie Furlong and Larry Boyle, starting on South Boston's first line, should spell win No. 1 for the City Pointers over Roslindale in the opening game of the second half of the afternoon's activities. The Little Green, through the scoring powers of Charlie Carosella, battled to a standoff in its only start, but appear doomed in this meeting.

Hyde Park, after opening its season with a fine showing against Charlestown, held South Boston to a tie two weeks back and should continue along the undefeated path against Brighton in the final game.

Bruins' Errors Force Ross to Change Plans

Locals Humble Canadiens

Just when he felt he could turn the club over to Cooney Weiland, Manager Art Ross noted so many mistakes on the part of the Bruins against Les Canadiens last night that he has been obliged to change his plans.

True, the Bruins came through with a 6 to 4 victory. And, it is also well to bear in mind that Cecil Hart's Flying Frenchmen are "millers" and therefore very difficult, particularly for the Rossmen, to cover.

But, the fact still remains, that there was absolutely no excuse for the Bruins to allow Les Canadiens to tie the game early in the third period by scoring twice in less than one minute.

PERFECT RECORD

However, I presume that in fairness to the players, attention should be called to the fact that there must be an abundance of mistakes in any game during which ten goals are scored.

Cooney Weiland has been very successful handling the Bruins. He piloted them to a 5 to 0 win over the Red Wings in Detroit on Sunday and now has a perfect record as a bench director, "two for two."

For some years, Art Ross has been trying to school a coach to take over the Bruins. He has had his fill of coaching from the bench. Even with the best clubs, the strain is terrific.

On his record Weiland looks like the logical successor to Art Ross, in the event that the veteran manager-coach decides to step aside. As long as he's connected with the club, however, Art Ross will coach the players during the pre-season training and in most of the practice sessions.

With the exceptions of the time he played with Ottawa and Detroit, Cooney Weiland has spent his entire N. H. L. career under Art Ross. He knows the Ross system perfectly and being an intelligent young man is capable of offering worthwhile instructions to the pressmen.

Bill Hollett and Roy Conacher were standouts for the Bruins last night. Hollett set up a sensational play, on which Herbie Schmidt scored the goal that broke the tie in the third period and less than a half minute later came right back and soloed for the tally that insured a Boston victory.

Young Conacher, who looks better every time out, scored twice. In the second period, he combined with Jack Crawford for the second Boston goal which was beautifully executed.

After taking Crawford's pass, Conacher went right in on Wilfie Cude, dribbled until the Canadien goalie was out of position and then slid the puck along the ice into the net. Just before the end of the game, Conacher came up with another goal, on a three man attack with Jack Crawford and Gordie Pettinger.

GETLIFFE SCORES

Roy Getliffe and Dit Clapper accounted for the other Bruins goals, the former scoring in the first period, assisted by Jack Portland and Bill Cowley and the latter in the middle stanza, on a pass from Woody Dumart.

The Bruins are resting today. The next practice will be held tomorrow at the Boston Arena.

Sunny Jim Gives Up Hope

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 25 (AP)—Sunny Jim Bottomley, the fair-headed boy of St. Louis baseball 10 years ago, has abandoned all hope of returning to the game.

Bottomley, now in the filling station business here, handed out a few broadcasts today but declared he entertained no future baseball prospects for himself.

The former Cardinal infielder gave the St. Louis National League team a broad range in the 1939 pennant race—"anywhere from first to seventh."

"The Cubs will be tough again, but the Reds are the dark horse—the team to watch."

Concerning the St. Louis Browns, the team he managed two years ago, Bottomley said the only course open to them was to obtain more pitching talent.

SLAPNICKA CERTAIN YANKEES BEATABLE

DELRAY BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP)—This is the time of year for American League rivals to predict the all-conquering New York Yankees can be stopped and it was C. C. Slapnicka's turn at bat.

Slapnicka is vice president of the Cleveland baseball club and he wouldn't be surprised if the Indians turned the trick.

"I believe the Yankees can be beat," he said, "and not one, but several clubs could do it. Barring accidents, of course, the Yanks have a good chance of repeating, but any number of things could happen. Injuries would hurt them and even if the players should stay in good shape the stars could have an off season, as all stars do."

EXPECTS CLOSE RACE

The Indians?

"I figure Bob Feller will win upwards of 20 games," he said. "I also figure that, barring mishaps, Feller, Johnny Allen and Kel Harder among them will account for between 55 and 60 games. If they do that we'll be tough—mighty tough."

Feller, who is vacationing here with Slapnicka and Rollie Hemsley, the Cleveland catcher, didn't have much to say himself.

"I've got room for improvement," he said, "but I think I will know better what to do if I go into another slump like the bad one I had last summer (Feller won 17 and lost 11 games). Everybody was giving me advice and I guess I was trying to do too many things. Next time I won't worry about it. The way I figure it now—you either do or you don't and there's no use worrying."

GRIMES LOOKS GOOD

The Indians, Slapnicka said, are about ready to start, with the possible exception that a young infielder or two may step up. Oscar Grimes looks like a coming second baseman, he said, and a half-dozen lads—Webb, Scalecy, Russell and Mack among them—will be hustling for a crack at the shortstop job held by Lyn Lary.
